MOKENA MERCHANTS ORGANIZE

N. F. Heiman Heads Business Men's Group; Plan Trade Campaign

With a view of creating a closer feeling of co-operation among its business men, and also to attract more trade to Mokena, the business men of Mokena, at a meeting held in the Cooper & Hostert garage, last Friday night, perfected the formation of the Mokena Business Men's Association and the following officers were elected:

President, N. F. Heiman
Vice-pres. Geo. F. Wannemacher
Secretary, Richard Hensel
Treasurer, Elmer Sippel

The members of the organization next discussed ways and means of bringing more trade to Mokena and to further the interests of the community.

It was decided to put on an intensive advertising campaign and as a special inducement to attract trade it was voted to issue special trading coupons with every 25c purchase and to make a special cash award of $20 each Saturday night at 9:15 p. m.

The trade coupons will be issued next Monday morning and the first prize award will be made on Saturday night, November 9th at 9:15 o'clock.

See the Business Men's Association advertisement in this issue for the opening announcement of the trading campaign. Watch this space each week and also for the individual advertisements of the business men of Mokena.

The merchants are inviting the public to trade in Mokena and to get acquainted with all of the business concerns. Quality stock and money saving prices will be featured every week.

The public is most cordially invited to be in Mokena for the big night, Saturday, November 9th.

The trade stimulating campaign is expected to do much to help Mokena to attain its place in the sun. There is no reason why Mokena can not be made as attractive a shopping center as any other community, all it needs is a spirit of co-operation, of real values in merchandise and prices that will attract the thrifty buyers.

Mokena invites all its citizens and friends to participate in its progressive move. Let us all work together to put the old home town on the map in a big way.

As the weather conditions are uncertain at this time of the year, the Association has decided not to hold any celebration marking the opening of the newly resurfaced Front street and felt more good could be accomplished by using the money which would be spent for putting on the celebration by using it in the business and advertising campaign.

St. Peter's Church, Frankfort Sponsors Chicken Dinner

The St. Peter's Evang. and Reformed church of Frankfort, will serve its annual chicken supper, Thursday, Nov. 7 at 4:30 p. m.

A three-act play, entitled, "Closed Lips", will be given at 8 o'clock. The characters are as follows:

Mrs. M. Radcliff, John clays' sister, Marie Geuther; Terry Radcliff, Matthew Radcliff's daughter, Frances Heuser; Mammy Jinny, the devoted cook, Mrs. Orville Hohenstein; Patricia Stone, Terry's friend, Marie Koerner; Willie Stone, Patricia's husband, Max Haass; Jeff, the colored gardener, Harvey Bohnsack; Star Bliven, a little waif, Jeanette Heuser; Bart Clay, John's son, Orville Schroeder; Matthew Radcliff, Bart's adopted father, Orville Hohenstein; John Clay, the convict, Clarence Klepper.

The committees for the supper are as follows: Supper: Co-chairman, Mrs. F. Martie and Mrs. Wm. Wischover, Mrs. Alvin Harnack, Mrs. F. Scheer, Mrs. Chas. Bobzin, Mrs. J. Topp, Mrs. Henry Lühring, Mrs. E. Weber, Mrs. C. Sangmeister and Mrs. Harvey Speiss.

Locate In Mokena

Mr. and Mrs. Rene Guindon of Tinley Park have located in Mokena, moving into the Jacob Knupp house on Niethammer avenue on Thursday of this week.

Mr. Guindon has joined the News-Bulletin staff in the capacity of linotype operator and printer.

Fire Destroys Grainary and Tool Shed On Owen Farm

Fire of unknown origin broke out in a grainary on the Willard Owen farm on the Lincoln Highway southwest of Mokena Saturday night. The flames were discovered by Mrs. Owen about 11 o'clock. The neighboring farmers were called by telephone, but the flames had gained such a rapid headway that they were beyond control. The grainary containing 400 bushels of oats and an adjoining tool shed containing a number of farm implements fell prey to the flames. The flames spread to an adjoining garage but after a hard fight the fire was placed under control.

The exact amount of the total loss has not been stated.

A lucky shift in the wind blew the sparks away from the farm home and other nearby buildings.

To Celebrate First Anniversary

Louis Hermsmeyer of Tinley Park will sponsor a celebration marking the first anniversary of the opening of his tavern on Saturday night, November 2nd.

He has made many changes and improvements since first opening the place and now has a nice, modern place including a large dining room and kitchen.

Free eats will be served Saturday night. There will be special music and other features. Everyone is invited.

Unemployed Sponsor Bunco Party Nov. 1

The Mokena Unit of the United Unemployed will sponsor a bunco and card party at the Mokena headquarters this Friday night commencing at 8 p. m. The public is invited to participate in the event.

Sunshine 4-H Club Will Stage Play

The Sunshine 4-H club of Sedan Prairie will sponsor a play "Deacon Dubs" at the Tinley Park school auditorium Friday night, November 1, at 8 p. m.

Tinley Legion Post To Hold Masquerade

The Tinley Park Post of the American Legion will sponsor a masquerade dance at the Bachelor Grove ballroom this coming Saturday night, November 2. Cash prizes will be awarded.

On Saturday night, November 9, the post will sponsor a pre-armistice day dance at the same ballroom.

Tinley Boys Arrested For Halloween Pranks

A number of Tinley Park boys ran afoul of the law Tuesday night when they carried their Halloween pranks a little too far and became destructive. Police Chief Harry Uthe arrested five of the boys and locked them up in the village jail. Later they appeared before Police Magistrate Clyde Rice.

Green Pantry Bids For Dance Trade

The Green Pantry at New Lenox is making a special bid for dancers to try their tasty fish dinners on Friday nights before going to the dances at the Colonial hall. This Friday the Gleaners are staging a dance at this hall and they are being invited to come to the Green Pantry for a delicious fish dinner.

Orland Man Killed When Car Hits Train

Eric Anderson, 28 years old, former mechanic in the Orland Motor Sales garage, was killed and two brothers from Palos Park by the name of Grieves and Henry Jacobs of Tinley Park were quite badly injured when the former drove his Ford V-8 into a moving freight train on the Indiana Harbor Belt line at 95th and Harlem early Sunday morning. The auto struck an oil tank car and caused a valve on the air brake system of the car to break which set the air and brought the train to a stop, but not until the auto had been dragged several hundred feet.

Anderson is survived by two sisters and a brother, also by relatives in Sweden. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from a funeral parlor in Blue Island.

The injured were taken to the little Company of Mary hospital at 95th street.

TINLEY PARK BUSINESS MEN SPONSOR MOVIES

Once again, the progressive spirit of Tinley Park has asserted itself. The splendid co-operation of the various organizations of this community and the enthusiastic support of its citizenry have gone far to make this lively town a most interesting place in which to live.

The first step was taken by the business men during the early months of this past summer.

An intensive campaign of co-operative advertising was put in force. The possibilities and advantages for the buying public were pointed out.

Bargains and low prices for quality merchandise was the call of the day.

The public response to this effort has been most gratifying. The enriched patronage and strengthened confidence of the buying public has more than amply repaid the Tinley Park merchants for their efforts to provide a convenient and economical shopping center for their community and its surrounding territory.

The ten dollar cash award offered each Saturday night has been most startling in its success. Tinley Park on a Saturday night is really a gala affair. Everybody is there. From far and near they come. A regular party night it is. The general password seems to be "see you in Tinley Saturday night."

The next step to be undertaken was the Fall Festival and Carnival and what a huge success and a rattling good time that was. The hearty co-operation and unity of action of each and every organization and club in Tinley Park with the fine public support made possible the success of this venture despite adverse weather conditions. A total profit of about $300 realized from this event was turned over to the Tinley Park School Board and is to be paid to the teachers in lieu of their long lost salaries.

The final step contemplated is to be a talking movie picture show and amateur vaudeville contest to be conducted every Saturday night at the Tinley Park School Auditorium.

With the approaching winter months and the great public demand for the continuance of the cash award each Saturday, the business men of Tinley Park are instigating this means of satisfying their patrons. The show will be of the highest possible calibre featuring a 45 minute run feature picture, a 15 minute comedy and four or five acts of amateur vaudeville. A $5 cash award will be given to the best judged act of vaudeville each Saturday night.

In addition to this the awarding of the merchants ten dollar cash prize will be held on the stage at 9 p. m. sharp.

The winning number will be announced in each place of business in town and the winning ticket will serve as an entry to the show and on the stage to claim the cash within the stipulated 30 minutes allowed.

There will be an entirely new show each Saturday night. The admission fee will be 15c for adults and 10c for children under 12 years of age.

This show will provide two full hours of entertainment and will be well worth the money.

The first performance is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 9 at 8:15 p. m.

Tinley Park is certainly to be congratulated for its marvelous public spirit, fine class of people and it's well managed and up-to-date business establishments.

KILL SAVAGE DOG AFTER 2ND ATTACK

The stray dog on the Cleveland farm south of Mokena which recently savagely attacked Wm. Hentsch, Jr., of Mokena and bit him quite severely on the left arm, again made a savage attack Wednesday afternoon, this time Emil Johnson was the victim. The dog attacked Mr. Johnson in a corn field and bit him on the arms and tore his clothes. Mr. Hentsch was with Mr. Johnson. They both got away from the savage dog by climbing on a wagon. They were kept on the wagon for sometime as the dog watched their every move and snapped and snarled at them. They finally drove back to the house where Mr. Johnson's wounds were dressed.

Both men got a shot gun and went back to the field and shot and killed the dog. It is not thought that the dog was mad, but was just naturally of a savage disposition.

NIAGARAI GIRLS NEWS

Last Thursday evening, October 24 the Niagara girls dressed in Hallowe'en costumes (and did they look cute and how!) meandered down the road to the little house in the woods, (Anderson's home of course) where the real spirit of Hallowe'en awaited to greet them. The home was beautifully decorated with oak leaves and lanterns which hung from the ceiling and made a mellow golden light. It was also decorated with black and orange crepe paper, witches and cats. As we arrived at the home, a ghost (Moss) greeted us.

Mr. Erickson furnished the music for the evening.

Suitable Hallowe'en games were played. The big event of the evening was the style parade. Each girl showing by action what her costume represents. Jean Mohr dressed as a dear old Granny with her ancient bonnet perched upon her brow and the most stunning pair of high top shoes ever seen since the gay nineties, took the prize.

During the evening Mrs. H. Anderson was presented with a beautiful China Candelabra for the hospitality shown to the girls of the club.

At last we were all seated around a table which was decorated in orange and black. At each place there were tiny cakes decorated up as a face and one had a candle on it. After we were all seated we lit the candle and made a wish. We also had little favors. They were little glass dolls dolled up in a little skirt and an acorn for a hat. The bottom was filled with Hallowe'en candy. We all had a wonderful time. The party then broke up.

Oh yes, we almost forgot, the entire juvenile male population of Tinley Park motored down waiting for what or who I wonder.

Well, toodle doo.

Vandals Cut Farm Fence 27 Times

Vandals cut a wire fence in 27 places on a farm on Harlem avenue and the Lincoln Highway just over the county line in Cook County last Friday night. The stock and horses roamed the highway all night, but luckily none were struck by automobiles and no accidents occurred. The owner of the stock was greatly surprised to find his stock on the highway Saturday morning and he notified the highway police at once. The stock was driven back onto the farm and the fence was repaired and the police patrolled the highway along the farm for several nights but there was no recurrence of the vandalism.

Mrs. R. Gaddies Scalded By Steam of Pressure Cooker

Mrs. Robert Gaddis residing on the Wm. Jones farm west of Mokena in New Lenox township was quite painfully scalded by steam last last Thursday afternoon. She had been cooking applesauce in a pressure cooker and when she loosened the cover the steam pressure was greater than she had estimated and the pressure blew the lid off the cooker. Her face, arms and hands were quite badly scalded by the live steam. She was alone at the time but managed to get to the telephone and summon Dr. E. G. McMahon of Mokena who rendered first aid treatment. She is getting along nicely and is able to be up again.

Choicest Products Sent Afeld, Travelers Find

If one must have the choicest caviar, stay away from Russia, or if the finest cheese is desired, avoid Switzerland, reports the Columbus Dispatch. This statement only reflects what experienced travelers have discovered, for it is an axiom that the finest products of a district or country usually are reserved for export. Even in southern California one looks in vain in the grocery stores for the great sound oranges so common elsewhere.

Moscow serves the inferior caviar, with the eggs small and many of them broken, while search for a cheese of the large-holed variety in Lucerne brings the answer from the shopkeeper that the good cheeses are shipped to England or America. The answer to all this is very simple. Shipment to other parts brings higher prices.

Apparently the people are not concerned over the fact that these fine qualities of their choicest products are sent abroad. Familiarity with their qualities lessens the appetite for the delicacies, and the increased revenue is sufficient to make up for any denial on their part.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

LIGHTFOOT VISITS PADDY THE BEAVER

DEEP in the Green Forest is the pond where lives Paddy the Beaver. It is Paddy's own pond, for he made it himself. He made it by building a dam across the Laughing Brook.

When Lightfoot the Deer bounded away through the Green Forest after watching the hunter pass through the hollow below him, he remembered Paddy's pond. "That's where I'll go," thought Lightfoot. "It is such a lone-some part of the Green Forest that I do not believe that hunter will come there. I'll just run over and make Paddy a friendly call."

So Lightfoot bounded along deeper and deeper into the Green Forest. Presently through the trees he caught the gleam of water. It was Paddy's pond. Lightfoot approached it cautiously. He felt sure he was rid of the hunter who had followed him so far that morning, but he knew that there might be other hunters in the Green Forest. He knew that he couldn't afford to be careless for even one little minute. Lightfoot had lived long enough to know that most of the sad meant. That crash was the falling of a tree. There had been no sound of axes, so he knew it could not have been chopped down by men. It must be that Paddy the Beaver had cut it, and if Paddy was working by daylight it was certain that no one had been around that pond for a long time.

So Lightfoot hurried forward eagerly, but still cautiously. When he reached the bank he looked across towards where the sound of that falling tree had come from. A branch of a tree was moving along in the water and half hidden by it was a brown head. It was Paddy the Beaver taking the branch to his woodpile.

THE DAY OF LEFTOVERS

IN EVERY well-regulated home there will be nice food which should not be slighted because it is left over. One housekeeper cleverly gets everything eaten by serving a tray with small dishes, nicely warmed and seasoned and each member of the family may have a choice. The food never goes begging.

things and dreadful things that happen in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows are due to carelessness, often only a moment's carelessness. No one who is hunted, be he big or little, can afford ever to be careless.

Now Lightfoot had known of hunters hiding near water, hoping to shoot him when he came to drink. That always seemed to Lightfoot a dreadful thing, an unfair thing. But hunters had done it before and they might do it again. So Lightfoot was careful to approach Paddy's pond up wind. That is, he approached the side of the pond from which the Merry Little Breezes were blowing towards him, and all the time he kept his nose working. He knew that if any hunters were hidden there, the Merry Little Breezes would bring him their scent and thus warn him.

He had almost reached the edge of Paddy's pond when from the farther shore there came a sudden crash. It startled Lightfoot terribly for just an instant. Then he guessed what it

CHAPTER I

The Chechahcos.

Garth knelt upon the planks of the small floating wharf to fasten a pitch-smear patch on the bottom of his upturned birchbark canoe. In the midst of his work he paused to listen. A faraway drone was just audible above the ting and hum of insects. He turned to peer at the southerly sky above the vast flood of the Mackenzie. The drone became more distinct.

A plane was coming downriver towards the emergency refueling station at the old abandoned trading post. Yet the regular schedule of the line did not call for the northbound Belanca for several days. In all probability, the Commercial Airways had sent out its emergency plane from Fort McMurray, Alberta.

Though his thoughts lingered on the approaching plane, his eyes and hands returned to the patching of the canoe. The craft must be made ready for the weeks of upriver paddling. There would be none too much time for the thousand-mile trip out before the winter freeze-up.

As he finished the patch the loud drone of the motor swelled into a staccato roar. He turned to watch the white monoplane swoop down and take the water like a squattering duck.

The pilot started to taxi shoreward. Garth again set about patching the small leak. A sudden silence told that the motor had been stilled. Across the hush came a curt order:

"Ho, Jack, fend off and snub her."

Garth leisurely twisted around to eye the incoming craft. She was a beautiful medium-sized plane with a swung around and lay nosing the current. Neither the man or the woman made a movement until Garth dove his canoe ashore and lifted it atop the stony bank.

As he climbed to the front of the old post store, above the base of the wharf, he saw the pilot at last swing down to haul on the line. Inside the big log cabin he crossed to one of the rear rooms and put a light hand on the forehead of the snoring man in the nearest bunk.

"Turn out, Tobin. Visitors."

The grizzle-bearded station tender roused up to blink and peer.

"Vis'tors? You're not stringin' me, Mr. Garth?"

"No, Rover plane."

Tobin slipped on his moccasins and hobbled out into the storeroom. The pilot had moored his plane head and tail to the lower side of the landing stage. He was handing his woman companion down from the cockpit. Both had replaced their leather flying helmets with hats and mosquito nets.

They went in under the overhanging wing to the screened door of the cabin. It opened to the outthrust of a portly man in city clothes. Assisted by the pilot, he managed to get down upon the wharf by means of steps lowered from inside the cabin. After hurriedly putting on a headset and gloves, he started inshore between his two companions. He limped as if slightly crippled. But the lameness might have been due to cramp from long sitting.

Garth spoke to the supply tender: "I'm only a stray prospector, Tobin. Understand?"

"Aye, sir," grunted Tobin. Without a word of greeting, he hobbled back a few steps as the pilot and his passengers stepped in over the rough threshold.

The portly man opened a gold-mounted cigar case. The young woman produced a long amber-stemmed cigarette holder. This was promptly filled by the pilot, who paused only to slap a mosquito on his clean-shaven cheek before striking a match.

Out went Garth's hand in a swift clutch that caught the flaming match in his calloused palm. The pilot, who was as tall as Garth and heavier built, turned to stare down at him with cold anger.

"You insolent roughneck! Clear out of here."

Garth smiled. Tobin did the answering: "Huh, crazy loon—lighting matches in here. Can't you read the sign? 'No smoking.' Bounce him, lad."

The pilot thrust a hand inside his leather jacket. "Try it. I'll drill both of you."

"How frightful," said Garth. "You must imagine this is a Wild West show. Please don't shoot until the lady can get outside. Shots are even more apt than matches to explode all this gasoline."

The portly man snapped shut his cigar case.

"That's so! You have no cause to be ruffled, Vivian. The fellow seems to have acted on a well-intentioned impulse."

The pilot's hand came out empty from inside the jacket. "Why couldn't the fool have spoken a warning?"

Garth had sized up the man. He expected neither an apology for the abuse nor thanks for saving the visitors from possible annihilation. With an indifferent smile, he shifted the gaze of his gray eyes to examine the woman member of the party.

A first glance had led him to think her older than the pilot. Under her rouge and powder her face was thin and drawn. Its lines might have belonged to a woman in the mid-thirties. Her blue eyes looked more than bored and cynical. Their tiredness matched the lined face. Her body was thin almost to boniness.

Yet, upon examination, Garth saw she could not be even in the mid-twenties. Traces of girlish freshness still lingered in her painted face, under the blemishes of dissipation and disillusionment.

As she faced away from him, the pilot spoke to Tobin:

"Get busy. Truck down sixty gallons of gas and five of oil—and be quick about it. While your helper is refueling the plane, you'll cook us the best meal you can throw together."

Down came Tobin's shaggy eyebrows. "Who d'you think you're bossin'? Shove along to a tradin' post for yer grub an' gas. This here cache is the comp'ny's emergency deepo."

The portly visitor took a billfold from his coat and drew out a paper. "Take a look at this order, my man. It authorizes me to requisition any of the Airways' stations for whatever supplies I wish."

Tobin read the order, and thrust it back, with no lessening of his dourness. "So you're Burton Ramill, are you? Looks like a straight order. All the same, you'll sign the book before you'll get a drop."

He turned about to open an oily account book on one of the stacks of gasoline cases. Mr. Ramill drew a fountain pen from his vest pocket with plump white fingers, and limped forward to write.

"There's your receipt," said the pilot. "Now have this dumb helper of yours rush out our gas, and get your pans on the fire. We want service."

"Yuh? Well, you're welcome to wait it till doomsday. That comp'ny order calls for supplies. Don't say nothin' about cookin' no service."

Mr. Ramill interposed: "All right, man. I see you're stiff from rheumatism. I will pay this young fellow to refuel the plane."

Garth turned his cool gaze upon the pilot. "Why not give this bird of yours the chance to earn a little more pay?"

"Because Mr. Huxby has flown my plane all the way from Chicago, with only short stop-overs. Also, he is my partner, not a mechanic."

"Well, he's not the only party present who's not a kiwi," Garth pulled a small poke from inside his buckskin shirt, hefted it as if considering, and put it back. "Nor do I need your pay."

Huxby's supercilious eyes glistened with sudden keen interest. "What's that? You're from the new gold fields?"

"No."

"But your gold sack?"

"Gold?" Garth muttered.

He drew out his poke again and opened it to shake a few small nodules of metal into his palm. Both Huxby and Mr. Ramill stepped close to peer at the grayish silvery bits. The older man looked puzzled. The younger took a nodule into his own palm, eyed it a moment, and banded it back in an indifferent manner.

"Galena. I'm a mining engineer. You're out of luck, not making a gold strike. Never before in history has silver been so low."

Garth looked disappointed. "Too bad, isn't it?"

He picked out a nodule that had been rubbed to a rather bright polish. The girl was leaning with her left hand on one of the lower piles of gasoline cases. A ring with a large blue diamond banded the "engagement" finger. Garth thrust the nodule up close beside the ring.

"Yes," he said, "I always did think gold looked prettier than galena—even white gold."

The girl drew her hand away as if he had smirched it. "My ring is not gold. You pretend to be a prospector, yet do you know platinum from gold?"

"Platinum?" Garth questioned. "But your friend here calls it galena."

Mr. Ramill interposed: "Permit me, Lilith—Young man, I am largely interested in metalliferous mines. If you have located a lode of galena, the lead might pay for development of the prospect."

"That depends," put in Huxby. "Where's the place?"

"Three weeks—paddle and portage," Garth answered.

"Slow travel. But by airplane?"

"The bird distance can't interest you. Neither lead nor silver would pay for airplane freighting. Nor would packing. I lost ten pounds of this—galena. Canoe upset, running one of the rapids."

As Garth spoke he put up a hand to cover a yawn. "If you don't mind, Tobin, I'll roll in. It's a long travels to Great Slave."

The portly investor in mines caught the eye of his engineer partner. He spoke to Garth: "You are going outside?"

"Perhaps."

"Well, a day or so should make no difference to you. Is there a lake or pond near your prospect?"

"One about four miles long; half as wide."

Huxby repeated his question: "It could be reached how soon by air?"

The fish were no longer nibbling; they were hooked. Garth had only to haul in on his line. But he took his time about it. He paused to consider. Not all fish prove to be desirable catches.

Neither Mr. Ramill nor Huxby looked like a crook. They had the appearance of reputable business men. On the other hand, neither looked easy. Huxby broke in on Garth's weighing of the chances: "Well, Jack, let's have it."

"Two to three hours," Garth replied.

"I don't know the speed of your plane."

"Fastest type of cabin cruiser. Call it six hours to go and return, and the same to inspect your prospect. It's possible there may be a trace of gold in your ore. I'll test it while you get your sleep."

The girl spoke to Mr. Ramill: "I shall take a nap myself, Dad. Ten hours of flying, with no chance to dance off the Scotch, is enough to kill a horse."

In the act of handing a nodule to Huxby, Garth paused to stare at the girl. So that was the answer—liquor, tobacco, paint, and all the rest of the flapper-jazz rot.

She stiffened and stared back at him haughtily. He dropped the nodule into Huxby's cupped palm and crossed into the rear room to stretch out on one of the bunks.

A tug at his shoulder roused Garth from his six-hour sleep. Tobin's hoarse voice croaked in his ear:

"Roll out, sir. Sun's up. The pair of 'em are keen to be a-wing. Looks like their test of your nugget lived 'em up. Grub 'em on."

Garth pulled on his buckskins and moccasins and stepped into the storeroom. Miss Ramill was coming in at the front door. She paused to remove her headset. Huxby and Mr. Ramill were already putting down a hearty breakfast of bacon, sourdough bread and oatmeal porridge. Garth crowded past them and Tobin to the end of the little shelf table.

Jefferson's Rules

Rules compiled by Thomas Jefferson included: Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today. Never trouble another for what you can do yourself. Never spend your money before you have it. Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you. Pride costs us more than hunger, thirst and cold. We never repent of having eaten too little. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly. How much pain is suffered in evils which have never happened. Take things always by the smooth handle. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, a hundred.

Amazing Juggling Trick

The most amazing juggling performance ever presented on a stage was the billiard-ball-and-cue act of the famous German juggler, Paul Cinquevalli. This feat, which required eight years to perfect, consisted of balancing two balls on the top of a cue, which in turn was balanced on another movable ball in a drinking glass that he held in his mouth.—Collier's Weekly.

Lesson for November 3

JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 25:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Black Man God Cared For.

JUNIOR TOPIC—In Time of Danger. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Results of Doing Wrong. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Nations Accountable to God.

I. The Siege of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

1. The time (vv. 1, 2). It began on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, lasting about eighteen months. The tenth month, according to the Jew's calendar, corresponds to our December-January, as their calendar began about the middle of March. The reason the exact time is given is that this was to be an event of great importance to the Jews in their exile. In their gloomy exile God directed Ezekiel to utter a parable unto the captives of that day (Ezek. 24).

2. The method (v. 11). Nebuchadnezzar came in person with a large army and encamped against Jerusalem, building forts against it round about. It is thought that several walls were built around the city, shutting it in. On the tops of these walls forts were built from which missiles of destruction could be hurled by their engines of war against the city. With the city thus shut in, its fall was only a question of time.

3. The famine (v. 3). Gekkie says, "It was speedily followed, as is always the case, with an outbreak of pestilence. Food was well-nigh gone. There had long been no bread. Mothers were at last driven to murder and eat their children. The richest citizens wandered about searching for scraps in the dung hills." Even outside the city the people were starving. "There was no bread for the people of the land." It is estimated that one-third of the people of Jerusalem died of starvation.

II. Zedekiah's Flight and Fate (vv. 4-7).

1. "The city was broken up" (v. 4). The Chaldeans had succeeded in making an opening in the wall so large that they could make their way into the city in spite of all that the Hebrews could do. Resistance was carried on to the bitter end.

2. Zedekiah's flight (v. 4). The king with his men of war fled by night toward the plain. His object no doubt was to cross the Jordan at Jericho and hide in the mountains east of the Jordan.

3. Zedekiah's fate (vv. 5-7).

a. He was overtaken in the plains of Jericho (v. 5). As soon as the Chaldean army discovered the flight they pursued and captured him.

b. He was brought to the king of Babylon at Riblah (v. 6). Riblah was a town north of Damascus. It was the king's headquarters from which he directed his armies against Tyre and Jerusalem. Before Nebuchadnezzar Zedekiah was tried as a criminal.

c. His fate. His sons were slain in his sight. His own eyes were put out. He was bound with fetters of brass and they carried him to Babylon where he remained a prisoner to the day of his death (Jer. 52:11).

III. Jerusalem Destroyed (vv. 8-10).

The dismantling of the city was delayed a month, perhaps awaiting instructions from Nebuchadnezzar who was at Riblah. The work of destruction was executed by the officer next in rank to the king.

1. They burnt the house of the Lord (v. 9). This was the sacred temple built by Solomon, with additions and alterations. Before burning it, they plundered it of all its sacred contents.

2. Burnt the king's house (v. 9). This was doubtless the palace built by Solomon.

3. Burnt all the houses of Jerusalem (v. 9). The implication is that the common houses were left for the people (v. 12).

4. They broke down the walls of Jerusalem. The aim in this was to render the walls useless as a means of defense.

IV. The Disposition of the Temple Furniture and Priests (vv. 13-21).

1. The temple furniture carried to Babylon (vv. 13-17). The pillars of brass and the brazen sea were broken into pieces by the Babylonians and together with the utensils were carried to Babylon.

2. Certain officers and priests taken to Riblah (vv. 18-21). These officers and priests and three score men of the land were taken to Riblah, where they were slain by the king of Babylon.

The events recorded in Second Kings cover a period of 303 years. God had said, "If thou wilt, then I will"; they had invited disaster by disobedience.

Experience

In youth we learn how little we can do for ourselves, in age how little we can do for others. The wisdom of experience is incommunicable.

A Good Man

It is better for a city to be governed by a good man than by good laws.—Aristotle.

Nature

Nature never stands still, nor souls neither; they ever go up or go down.—Dore.

OLD WATER SYSTEM

Bellakan, a city which existed up to the Fifth century in the Steppes, is being excavated. An ancient irrigation system was found so well preserved that it could be used today.

LOVES OATMEAL MORE THAN EVER

Once you learn that oatmeal is so rich in Vitamin B for keeping fit, IS IT ANY WONDER THAT THOUSANDS STICK TO OATMEAL BREAKFASTS?

Many are nervous, poor in appetite, system out of order, because their daily diets lack enough of the precious Vitamin B for keeping fit.

Few things keep them back like a lack of this protective food element.

So give everyone Quaker Oats every morning. Because in addition to its generous supply of Vitamin B for keeping fit, it furnishes food-energy, muscle and body-building ingredients. For about 1/2¢ per dish.

Start serving it tomorrow for a 2-weeks test. Quaker Oats has a wholesome, nut-like, luscious appeal to the appetite. Flavors, surprisingly good. All grocers supply it.

The supreme thrill-story of the year!

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

By Robert Ames Bennet

● Never before has even this favorite author come forth with a novel that has action like this. Imagine the plight of a plane lost in the cold wastes of the North—a prospector fighting for his life and those of three tenderfeet, one a spoiled daughter of wealth, and all three of whom were plotting his death!

● Here's the first installment of this great serial. You'll want to start now—today—and follow it to the whirlwind finish.

The Girl Drew Her Hand Away as if He Had Smirched It.

cabin behind the semi-enclosed cockpit. Between her headway and the river current, she was driving towards the upstream side of the wharf at a speed that promised to smash the pontoons.

Yet neither of the two helmeted persons in the cockpit made a move to climb down in readiness to ward off the shock. Nor did either work the controls to veer the craft clear. Both were hastily putting on headsets and gloves to protect themselves from the outbuzzing swarms of mosquitoes and bulldog flies. They seemed to take for granted that the worker on the wharf would rush to give them service.

In the North alebodied men are supposed to wait upon themselves. More, the pilot's tone had been that of a master commanding an inferior. Garth stayed motionless, waiting for the crackup with cool curiosity.

At that the smaller person cried out in a sharp, almost shrill voice: "Quick, you gawping dummy!"

The fact that one of the pair was a woman made a vast difference. Garth caught the end of the mooring line flung by the pilot, and snatched up a long pikepole. Its outthrust point met the tip of the nearer pontoon.

Bent low, Garth put all of his weight and strength into his angling shove with the pole. The momentum of the ingliding plane forced him back one step after another. Then his moccasins found a holding grip against the up-turned edge of a plank.

Instead of driving in against the wharf at the blunt angle with which it had approached, the head of the plane began to swing off. With another out-pur of strength, Garth swung it parallel with the upstream side of the wharf.

Aided by a slight swerve in the current, he was able to walk the plane to the outer end of the wharf before the nearer pontoon could hit the float logs. As the aircraft glided clear, he made the line fast to a ringbolt and returned to his canoe.

"What the devil!" snapped the pilot. "Come back, you fool. Take in the slack—moor us."

Garth swung his canoe into the water and stepped aboard to test the last patch. The airplane, having drifted downstream to the end of the line,

MOKENA

The Sub-Debbs Girls' club held a Hallowe'en party Tuesday evening in the stand of Mrs. J. V. Hall. All were attired in Hallowe'en costumes. The stand was cozily decorated with corn stalks, pumpkins, etc. Luncheon was served from a table decorated with Hallowe'en features with black lighted candles. Games were played and at 11:30 p. m., the party broke up with all having a very happy time.

Miss Deletta Werner entertained a group of girl friends at a Hallowe'en party in the basement of her home Tuesday evening. Hallowe'en decorations made the basement a place of enchantment. Games were played and refreshments were also served.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore and daughter returned from Chicago Tuesday evening where on that afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Moore's mother was held. The deceased was 80 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaub of Chicago called at the R. A. Bechstein's home on their return trip from Branson, Mo., where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Houchin. They also enjoyed a trip to Tulsa, Okla.

Christ Hentsch and Wm. Hentsch, Jr., spent Sunday in DeKalb as guests of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Schauer. Rev. Schauer was a former pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church in Mokena. They also visited with their brother John Hentsch.

MOKENA SCHOOL NEWS

The Sox held the Cubs to a 0-0 tie in the world series spelling ballgame that is held every other Friday in Miss Doigs room.

The second grade has started a contest in reading, between the boys and girls. The team that is ahead at Christmas time will win a prize.

The Primary room had a Hallowe'en party Thursday afternoon after recess. Prizes were awarded for the best costumes for boys and girls. Refreshments were served.

Donald Smith, who has been absent the past week because of a sore throat, has returned to school.

The grade school basketball team has been practicing and is in fair shape. There will be a hard fought battle to see who will be the first five men to represent the grades.

Today, Friday, November 1, is a holiday for the pupils of the Mokena school, but not for the teachers. They are attending a Northeastern district teachers' meeting which is being held in Joliet.

The Sophomore History class is having a "did you know that?" period twice every week. Interesting facts concerning history are contributed by the pupils. Sides were chosen up and leaders appointed.

While Mrs. Gilbert, who recently lived in Mokena, is getting settled in California, she is having her magazines sent to the school. We are sure that these magazines will be of great use and enjoyment to the pupils.

This week the pupils of the Freshmen Geography class took imaginary trips to different destinations. The places visited were: Hawaii, Alaska and the Philippines. The outstanding reports were: David Tierney's trip to Alaska; Julia Milsap's trip to Hawaii and Blenda Monson's trip to the Philippines.

Last Friday morning the high school held its first music session. It will be held once a week on either Friday or Monday.

Features

Did you know that we have six people in the school who have red hair? They are: Betty Schoen, Norman Olson, Gordon Speiss, Gordon Benson, William Evitt and Fred Clarke.

We thought that some of the readers of this column would be interested in our basketball players, so we have made plans to interview them. In this edition we are interviewing Donald Kohl and Russell Nelson. Watch for other players in future editions.

Here are the questions and the answers received from Donald:

What is your age?

I'm almost 15 years old.

What grade are you in?

I'm in first year high school.

Have you always attended Mokena school?

No, I went to a country school before I came here, which was this year.

Have you ever played on another basketball team?

No, I have not.

What position do you play?

I am going to play guard, I believe.

Russell Nelson answered as follows:

I'm 15 years old and am a Sophomore in high school. I've attended the Earle school in Chicago. I played on Mokena's team last year, in the grades also, but I never have played on another team.

Russell plays guard and last year he was on the first team of the High school.

Mokena will have their first game of basketball for the season with Manhattan. All the boys are hoping that they are the ones to be chosen to represent the team.

A company of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hirsch, Jr., Sunday night to celebrate Mr. Hirsch's birthday. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Hopman, Tinley Park, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wirtz, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. George Perryman, DeKalb, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lathrop, Beloit, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hirsch, Chicago Heights.

Properly Stowed Bags Add to Comfort

Comfort, pleasure, and safety on a tour depend largely on efficient loading of the luggage, and modern body designs have done much to ease the problem, as these views of Chevrolet models reveal. In the upper left view, the suitcases have been fitted in snugly, the adjustable front seat having been moved forward to allow extra leeway, and the driver is now pushing back the seat to clamp the bags in place for the day. Upper right, the tourist is utilizing the baggage space back of the rear seat. The two lower pictures show the loading of a coupe compartment and a sedan trunk.

Tinley Park Business Men's Association

ORLAND

The Young People's Society of the Christ Lutheran church are busily engaged preparing for the 3 act comedy "Here Comes Charley" which they will present on the night of November 7th at 8 p. m., in the Orland Park public school auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend. An excellent program is being prepared.

Wm. Schroeder who figured in a serious auto accident recently, was brought home from the hospital the forepart of the week. He is convalescing as well as can be expected.

Barney Moor's place was the scene of a real old time Halloween party Wednesday night. The place was decorated with pumpkins, corn stalks, autumn leaves and other Halloween decorations. A chicken dinner was served and also hot sand wiches. Dancing and music added to the merriment. All present enjoyed a grand time.

W. R. Schussler, Jr., past commander of the Orland Park Legion Post and well known local Ford dealer, has been quite ill for several days suffering from a sudden attack of ptomain poisoning.

The Orland Park village board at their bi-monthly meeting Monday night, placed their order for the 1936 village vehicle tax stickers.

A Halloween party was held at the Oswald place on 159th street on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Sherman Knox attended the funeral of a relative held at Des-plains the latter part of last week. Duck hunting has been on for over a week. Hunting in the forest preserves is prohibited and all duck hunting is being done on private property.

Wm. Junker, veteran Orland Park mail carrier who underwent an operation in the Blue Island hospital last week, is convalescing nicely.

The Fred Uthe family have moved to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Steffen, Jr., have moved to Blue Island.

TINLEY PARK

Little Lois Guindon gave a Pre-Hallow'en party last Friday after school in her home. The room was decorated in keeping with the Hallow'e'n spirit. Games were played and each guest received a favor which were horns, hats, and noise making toys. Refreshments were served by the young hostess' mother. This also was a farewell party to Lois' friends as she, with her parents have moved this week to Mokena. Those present were: Laddie and Opal Stover, Emma and Mary Price, Joan Crist, David Bagby, Lois Wallen, Loretta Keuch, Velma Lorenz, Janice Boerner, Edgar Hickey, Leon and Theodora Yuska.

Miss Louise Snodgrass, music teacher of the Tinley Park public school, underwent an operation for appendicitis, Monday in the Grant hospital in Chicago. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hopman attended the birthday party held in honor of the birthday of Frank Hirsch Jr., in the latter's home in Mokena, Sunday evening.

August Habenicht demonstrated a working model of his deep well automatic pump at the big corn husking contest held in DeKalb Wednesday.

The new meat market opened Saturday by H. Smith of Harvey in the Hollstein building did a very rushing business all day and evening. Mr. Smith reports 174 cash customers for the opening day and a good steady daily trade since.

The Ladies' Aid of the Zion Lutheran church held a very successful bazaar at the Saenger hall Wednesday evening. There was a very good attendance and excellent sales are reported. Refreshments were also served and a most delightful time was enjoyed by those present.

H. C. Vogt and Wm. Funk have been enjoying a few days hunting trip at Bath, Ill. Mr. Funk has made several hunting trips to that section this fall and reports plenty of game.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bartlett entertained in their home last Saturday evening at a Hallow'e'n party. The home and yard was prettily decorated with various colored lights. Games were played and refreshments were served.

The village board will hold its regular monthly meeting next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Omar Ebenhack have motored to Richmond, Indiana where they are visiting with the former's niece. They also motored to Springfield, Ill., where they visited the college the niece is attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebenhack will return to Tinley Park next Monday.

A number of Tinley Park friends visited with Mrs. Gotham in Blue Island Wednesday afternoon.

A number of friends called on Mrs. Edmund Moss Tuesday and helped her celebrate her birthday. Bunco was played and lunch was served. Many lovely gifts were received by the honored guest.

A company of relatives and friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bettenhausen and helped them celebrate their wedding anniversary Wednesday evening, Oct. 30th.

125,000 PEOPLE IN THE CHICAGO AREA ARE LIVING BETTER BECAUSE OF GAS HEAT...

Dirt and Drudgery

GONE FOREVER!

For only a few cents a day more,
you can live better in your own home, free from furnace drudgery

NOT yet noon—and through for the day. No floors to scrub. No coal to shovel, no fires to watch. She's one of the thousands now enjoying the freedom of clean gas heat. For the first time in years she really knows the meaning of leisure. You're really living when you have gas heat.

This ideal method of heating is spotlessly clean. It eliminates all of the old time furnace dirt. Once your house is clean, it stays that way. No smudge to blacken curtains and drapes. No dust, no grime to work into rugs and furniture. No dirt to cause endless cleaning. Your time is your own, to do with as you want. But more than that, gas heat gives you a chance to leave your home without worry. Just set the thermostat, and the furnace takes care of itself. No anxious moments wondering if the heat is up. No constant fear that the fire will die. You know that every room in the house will be cozy and warm when you get back home.

Don't wait any longer to have gas heat. Make up your mind to enjoy the freedom and luxury it brings. If others can have it at the small additional cost, so can you. Call your nearest Public Service Company. We will give you complete details and a estimate of what it will cost you.

Tinley Park Legion Aux. Unit

ERNA WALLIN, Pub. Chairman

The regular meeting of the Tinley Park Auxiliary Unit No. 615 was attended by 18 members on Friday, October 25.

The Rehabilitation Chairman Mrs. Freitag, reported that a "Beano" party is being planned for the boys at Orland Convalescent camp.

Members will be notified as soon as a date is set.

Inasmuch as Units have been asked not to make individual gifts to certain children at Normal, a motion was made to contribute a certain amount to the Child Welfare fund, to be used for all the children alike.

Although 1936 dues are not officially called for before October 20, many auxiliary members have re-enrolled before that date. Our membership Chairman Mrs. Brandau, asked all members to try to pay their dues as soon as possible. The National Convention voted a two per cent increase in State membership quotas, which calls for an increase of approximately 10,000 members above this year's quotas. The enthusiastic early enrollment indicates that this year's gain of approximately 20,000 members will be equalled or exceeded in 1936, giving the auxiliary the largest enrollment in its history.

Mrs. Rowden, our Fidae chairman, reported that this year the auxiliary will study the country of Poland.

The chairman of the Past President's Parley, Mrs. Felten, reported they were sending the gold star mothers at Oak Forest a box of "goodies" for Hallow'e'n.

The members voted to send $10 to the Rehabilitation "treasure chest" fund. This fund is for purchasing slippers and smokes for hospitalized men at Christmas.

Don't forget the Fourth District meeting on November 18 at Lemont.

Attention members! Our next meeting will be on Monday, November 11 instead of Friday, November 8. A chow-mein supper will be served at 6 o'clock to all members of the Auxiliary and Post and their families for a small sum. Make your reservations before November 11 to Mrs. West. Our meeting will follow the supper at which time our guest speaker will be Dr. Roselle, Past Commander of LeRoy McCollough Post. After the meeting entertainment will be furnished for all present.

Mrs. Swisher requested that as many officers and chairmen as possible attend the School of Instruction on November 8, to be held at the Presbyterian church, 67th and Emerald avenue, Chicago.

As our president had a birthday anniversary during the preceding week, the members sang the birthday song to her, and wished her many happy birthdays to come.

The meeting then adjourned until November 11. Don't forget the date.

Will County Farmers Favor Continuance of AAA Program

Will County farmers voted 7 to 1 in favor of a continuance of the AAA program. The vote in the immediate territory was as follows: Township contract votes:

Frankfort, yes 9; no 1.
New Lenox, yes 12; no 1.
Green Garden, yes 25; no 0.
Homer, yes 19; no 1.
Non Contract votes:

"Well Begun's Half Done" When Making Your House Frock

There was never a truer phrase than that, and how well it applies here! For before you know it your dress is cut and ready to stitch. This pattern is so easy to follow. There's everything new about the lines of this fetching house frock, with its contrasting surplice facing and doesn't it look like a different dress when buttoned up to the neck, see small sketch—with those enormous buttons? When household chores are finished, button up the deep pointed surplice and wear the frock to market. It's smart enough. Try it in colorful novelty cotton or gingham.

Pattern 9614 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 yards 36 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting. Complete diagrammed sew chart included. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 232 West Eighteenth St., New York, N. Y.

THE REASON WHY

Chatty—Oh, he's so romantic. When he addresses me he always calls me "Fair Lady."

Catty—Force of habit, my dear. He's a street car conductor.—The Sunday School Herald.

Parliamentary

"Do you think you'll be able to get the speaker's eye?"

"The speaker hasn't done anything to me yet," said the athletic young member. "If he does, I won't aim for his eye. I'll aim for his jaw."

Fetch the Syrup

First Minstrel—Tambo, can you tell me why baseball and pancakes are alike?

Second Minstrel—No, I can't. What's the reason?

First Minstrel—They both depend upon the batter.—Detroit News.

How She Saw It

He—They've dropped their anchor again.

She—Serves them right. They had it dangling over the side all morning.

National Topics Interpreted

BY WILLIAM BRUCKART

NATIONAL PRESS BLDG.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Washington.—A friend of mine, a minor official of the government, remarked to me the other day that he could find very little cause for excitement in his own mind about the hostilities between Italy and Ethiopia. The fighting is so far away, he said, and the nations involved are of such comparative insignificance in the whole world structure that he found no reason at all to do more than read the black-faced headlines about the trouble as they appeared from day to day in the great metropolitan newspapers.

We were, at the time, wending a rather slow way around the golf links of the Congressional Country club. The course is set in the midst of fine farming country and my friend used the situation as a basis for his argument that there was little reason for any of us to take the Italian-Ethiopian trouble seriously.

"How can it make very much difference to us," he asked with a wave of his hand toward the fine farms and splendid homes within sight, "when we have a nation so admirably supplied with resources of which those are typical? We can live even if the trouble broadens. If necessary we can close our shores to foreigners and keep out of the trouble."

Unwittingly, my friend supplied a text. In fact, he supplied two of them.

The man in question is able, has a good brain and is doing his job satisfactorily, but it is his first connection with the government in an official capacity. He has not had training heretofore that fits him or equips him to deal with broad international questions. In time his views will change. Of that I have no doubt, but the fact remains that his attitude on the Italian-Ethiopian situation marks him as one of countless hundreds of government officials, past and present, who are brought in and given responsible posts without regard to their understanding of all of the problems which they must meet.

The other text which my friend's conversation suggested is "what interest do we have in the African war?"

Most individuals will agree that at the moment we are in no danger and that immediately there is no prospect of any kind of trouble insofar as the United States is concerned but it is not the immediate prospect that we must consider. It is not the immediate prospect that caused Secretary Hull of the State department to declare and to reiterate that the objective of present American policies is to keep this country out of war. That was the reason congress enacted the so-called neutralty resolution and that was the reason President Roosevelt placed an embargo against the shipment of arms and munitions of war to the present belligerents. Again, it is not the present but where we go from here that concerns us.

Undoubtedly congress did a popular thing when it adopted the resolution designed to prevent development of circumstances which may place us on the verge of the cataclysm. I say the action was popular because there has been no indication from any important quarter, except from traders whose business has been handicapped, against the official policy enacted in that resolution.

But the end is not yet. In the first instance, all of Europe is virtually a powder keg. Potential dynamite lies in the differences between Russians and Japanese. Their frontier can be the scene of the fated overt act at any moment. And, while the hope is for settlement of all differences between the Japanese and the Russians in a peaceful manner, there is no assurance that these can be so settled.

Since the Italian dictator, Mussolini, brazenly announced that he wanted more territory for his people and proposed to get it at the expense of the black men in Ethiopia, tension between Great Britain and Italy has increased from day to day. Backing and filling between the British and the French have been the regular order because the British and the French have comparable interests in Africa. Further, a strengthened Italy means a menace of a continuing character to her neighbor, France.

The British have scores of battleboats in the Mediterranean sea. Those ships are at anchor from which they can be called into quick use. The British say the fleet is maintained there merely as a "precaution." Mussolini knows better. He knows and every one else will discover after even a superficial examination of the situation that the British will brook no moves by Italy that threaten British control of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan nor will the British permit Mussolini to gain control of such Ethiopian territory as will jeopardize their supervision over territory through which the waters of the blue Nile flow. These waters are essential to the British.

So it takes no stretch of the imagination to conclude that even a minor incident, accidental damage to a British boat or an injury to a British citizen—of such things and from such things comes war—will cause trouble.

If by any chance one of those "incidents" comes, the British and the Italians will be at each other's throats. Next, should that break develop, every nation in Europe is compelled for one reason or another to align itself with one side or the other. Hitler, for example, would want nothing better than an opportunity to stir up some trouble among the other nations in order that he could spread his power over Austria and Hungary and maybe over some of the Balkan states. He wants more territory and if a free-for-all should get started Herr Hitler will lose no time in subjugating some of the neighboring countries.

Even if these conditions obtain, my friend's statement that the war is a long way off still is correct. It would be three or four thousand miles from American shores but the point of difference is that we are a commercial nation and the European powder keg explodes our commerce would be affected. Indeed, it would be virtually destroyed.

But, it will be asked, why not live within our own shell? The answer is, we cannot do so. Our ships, carrying the products of our farms and factories, would be plying the seas. Nations at war do not take the time always to learn the character of cargo aboard a ship at sea nor do they inquire its destination or the purpose for which it is to be used. Then, we hear of the overt act. An American ship with an American crew and an American cargo is sunk. Or, American-owned and manned business units in some one of the belligerent countries suffers from one of the various things that takes place during the war. It may be the act of some hot-headed foreign national or it may be a deliberate move by a government, but the result is the same. An American citizen is killed, an American flag is insulted. We are in it.

It seems to me, therefore, that we have every reason to watch closely those developments abroad. Our own people are not blameless for some of the conditions that develop. For instance, the following day after Mr. Roosevelt issued his proclamation prohibiting exports of arms and munitions and, by inference, prohibiting dealings of any kind with Italy and Ethiopia, New York exporters rose with a mighty howl and the Port Development Authority in New York protested. One group saw all opportunities for profitable business stricken out by the prohibition against exports and the other with proper civic pride, complained that the executive action would wreck New York city as a maritime center. Their complaints were natural, quite human, but their refusal to accept the national policy simply represents one of the many things constituting an early step that may subsequently be one of the foundation stones of war.

I do not mean to say in these columns that we should become a peace-at-any-price nation. On the contrary, I think that is a cowardly position for any nation to take. What I do emphasize, however, is that if we are to have an international policy, we should adhere to it.

Now, let us consider the government's problem. I said earlier that congress undoubtedly had acted in accordance with the views of a majority of our people. President Roosevelt has chosen to accept the neutrality resolution as a mandate from congress which gives him almost no discretion. His arms embargo his shipping prohibition and his warning to American citizens that they travel on boats belonging to the belligerent powers they do so at their own risks was the narrowest construction possible to have been placed on the neutrality edict of congress.

Congress is not in session and will not be back here again until January. The President's hands are tied unless he decides to call congress into extra session and that, of course, will not be done unless sudden flames of war sweep over the whole world. Therefore, Mr. Roosevelt clings to the policy which he has adopted in narrowly constraining the neutrality resolution until the congressional session opens in January, congress can do no more than amend him for following its dictates. But if any of the conditions enumerated above should place the American neutrality position where a test must be had, congress must accept the line. So, as long as Mr. Roosevelt follows his present course and throws himself completely on the law, the president can make short answer to those who would enlist this country in international action that position, of course, has its weaknesses because something may develop, overnight with which he cannot deal under an inflexible law but on the other hand, the act that he can do little without calling congress back certainly provides a cooling-off period during which the thoughts of a nation may crystallize.

ILLINOIS BREVITIES

Two horses died soon after being bitten by a rattlesnake on the farm of A. B. Richmond near Kankakee.

Jack Mahon, twenty-seven, trip rider in Bell and Zoller mine No. 2 at Zeigler, was killed when he fell off a car.

Ralph S. Cabb, thirty-three, formerly of Champaign, died in Monticello after purposely drinking poison.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Williams of Cleveland, Ill. observed their sixtieth wedding anniversary at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith of Tampico celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Joseph C. Snider, seventy-eight, who helped establish the city of Christopher, died at his home there.

John Lesko, sixty-four, miner of Witt, Montgomery county, committed suicide by hanging himself to a rafter at his home.

Arthur W. Lee, nineteen, of Mattoon, a member of the CCC corps stationed on the Rock Island arsenal, was killed when he fell from a truck.

Walter Murray, forty-two, Sterling garage mechanic, drowned in Rock river when trying out an automobile motor in a homemade boat.

Sinclair Getty, ninety-three, who claimed to be the oldest jeweler in Illinois, died in a Bloomington hospital. He had been continuously engaged in the jewelry business for 72 years.

Frank Rice, fifty-five, Hillsboro truck gardener, was struck by a Big Four freight train while walking to his home and died several hours later at Hillsboro hospital.

Frank Cash, thirty-three, was found dead in an automobile parked along an infrequently traveled country road west of Edwardsville. He had fired a bullet into his mouth which penetrated his brain.

Mrs. Phoebe Rackley Morris, who came to Malden from Alden, N. Y., with her parents in a covered wagon 98 years ago, died at her home at the age of one hundred years, outliving her husband and children.

Fire which started in the Westfield hotel destroyed the hotel, the post office and a barber shop and threatened to consume an entire business block. Six families staying in the hotel were forced to flee.

Mrs. Sarah Eleanor Longwell, native of Montgomery county, daughter of the late D. A. McCaslin, one of the earliest born natives of Illinois, died at the home of her son, George H. Longwell, prominent Pana business man.

W. H. Rodden, sixty, founder of the Jo Daviess county village of Rodden, was killed and Clem Bradigan, forty, of Elizabeth, driver of the car in which they were riding, was injured when the machine was struck by a Great Western train at a crossing near Rodden.

Jo De Luxe, a three-year-old Belgian stallion, and his mate, won the first prize of $400 in the first national stallions' pulling contest held at Lincoln Field race track two miles south of Crete. The champion team hitched to a dynamometer pulled a 3,000-pound load 13 feet and 10 inches. Jo, a sorrel, weighs 1,820 pounds. He was paired with Rock, one of the team that won the world's championship pulling record twice for the Statler farms of Piqua, Ohio.

Another Illinois set of Works Progress administration projects calling for $2,053,984 in federal funds came through the Washington machinery and money was released by the accounts division of the United States Treasury department. Of the 87 projects included in the batch 33 were for Chicago and Cook county. Robert J. Dunham, WPA administrator for Illinois, said the projects would furnish employment for 20,000 persons now on the relief rolls.

George Vasilenkos, twenty-one, a Chicagoan held as a robber, emulated the late John Dillinger when he carved out a wooden pistol and attempted to escape from the jail at Kankakee. He deceived the jailer and one deputy sheriff, but a second deputy, Walter Bauer, drew a real pistol and after shooting Vasilenkos in the neck and abdomen, captured him before he reached the outer doors of the prison. Vasilenkos was arrested several weeks ago for two highway robberies. One of his victims was Thomas Marcott, a state highway policeman.

Basil (the Owl) Banghart, convicted kidnaper of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, and three other prisoners made a spectacular escape from the Menard state prison by smashing through the penitentiary gates in a commandeered truck. Banghart and two of his companions were captured at the end of a wild chase through the countryside which ended 12 miles south of the prison when they were overtaken by a posse of 100 guards. Banghart was shot in his arm, but the two other men were taken unhurt. The fourth prisoner, Cletus Stone, who was serving a sentence for armed robbery, still was at large.

Rev. Dr. Gilbert Stansell, a leading clergyman from Dixon, who was appointed pastor of the Cuyler Avenue Methodist Episcopal church in Oak Park during the recent ninety-sixth annual Rock river conference in Elgin, was killed in a crash with a parked truck in Lombard.

Despite four bullet wounds she said were inflicted by her son, John, Mrs. Malinda Mackelond, seventy-nine, still was alive 40 hours after the shooting. The son committed suicide. Officers found the son, aged fifty, dead, a rifle by his side. Friends and relatives said the son was in ill health.

CROCHETED FLOWERS FOR POT HOLDERS

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Pot holders crocheted with heavy string are very practical and when made in flower forms are really lovely. They are heavy enough to protect the hands without requiring padding. These three pot holders are crocheted in the same manner but in different combinations of red, yellow and green. The petals are crocheted separately of one color and then slip stitched together and finished in contrasting colors. Size when finished about six inches.

Instruction sheet No. 731 with illustrations and instructions how to crochet these holders, also how to arrange the colors, will be mailed to you for 10 cents. Material can also be bought from this department. Information and price are given when mailing instructions.

Mastery of Self

One of the most important, but one of the most difficult things for a powerful mind is, to be its own master. A pond may lie quiet in a plain; but a lake wants mountains to compass and hold it in.—Addison.

His Supreme Thrill

I have seen the Bay of Naples, Niagara falls, the beautiful harbor of Rio, the blue sky and waters of Nassau, the cherry blossoms of Japan, the grass skirts of Hawaii, the pyramids of Egypt, Tribune square, St. Peter's of Rome, the Kentucky derby, Army-Navy football, All-Stars and Bears, Joe Louis, Will Rogers, and Ann Pennington in the "Follies." I have caught muskies in Wisconsin, tarpon in Florida, barracuda at Catalina, salmon in Alaska, shot moose in New Brunswick, tigers in India, have made The Wake and The Line, but the greatest thrill was recently in front of Dafoe hospital in Callander, Ont., when they brought out the Dionne quintuplets and one of them looked over at me and remarked, "Da, da."—H. Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Wafers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity).

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today.

Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letter head.

HOW Firestone GIVES YOU LOWEST COST PER MILE

FIRESTONE TIRES are built different — they have three patented construction features not used in any other truck tire. The body is built with Gum-Dipped High Stretch cords. Gum-Dipping, the patented Firestone process, soaks the cords in pure liquid rubber, insulating and coating every strand in every cord. This is why Firestone Tires run cooler and are stronger.

The tread is made of a new and tougher rubber compound which gives greatest resistance to wear. This, together with the scientific non-skid design, gives greater traction and longer non-skid mileage. Firestone locks this wider, heavier and more rugged tread securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body of the tire by building two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords (patented) under the tread.

These exclusive construction features result in lowest cost per mile. The largest operators in the country and operators of all types of equipment buy Firestone Tires year after year on their cost-reducing performance.

Call on the Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store or Tire Dealer nearest you today, and start reducing your operating costs. When buying new equipment be sure to specify Firestone Tires.

This Hallowe'en was one of the warmest for many years and the youngsters were out in full force

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH
Carlton C. French, Pastor

Unified Service 10 to 11:30.
Unified Service
The worship service and the Sunday school at the Methodist church have been merged into one service.
This innovation was tried last Sunday as a feature of the Annual Rally Day, and worked well enough to warrant further trial. According to the new plan, a full program is offered, beginning at ten o'clock for an hour and a half of meditation, worship, preaching and class study.
The aim will be to include all elements vital to religious nurture and expression, with sufficient variety to satisfy a wide range of interests.
There are eight classes for study, to which the pastor hopes a ninth will be added; an Adult Bible class.

The present staff of teachers and officers include:
Miss Elmira McGovney.
Miss Eloise Balaz.
Mrs. J. V. Hall.
Mr. Frank Kelly.
Miss Alice Lauffer.
Miss Vera Klose.
Mrs. Florence Steele.
Rev. Carlton French.
Mrs. John Balaz, Sec'y.
